Abide in the Wind Collapse

Hollan Central Plaza

Dispatch of the subjugation army for the Southern Slave Rebellion.

No, no, we need something with a bit more oomph in the headline.

It requires a tad more dignity for it to leave a good impression on the royal family, but not too much.

An ambiguous info that seems an insider's scoop. If

Stop blabbering nonsense and take the pictures

Yes, yes.

They recruited some gunners and cavalry troops. The cavalry is in the lead with 100,000
foot soldiers-

They're going to retaliate the ones who caused this revolt so that they can exterminate the source, etc?

The last spring
expedition had 5,000
troops, right?

Yes. Well, that's old news now.

The height of the slave market ended thirty years ago, now they only hunt a few strange beasts in the Grand Plains

The south will have an endless stream of news from now, so focus your efforts there.

Yes, your.

It's almost time for the king to show his face.

There, he's coming.

Abide in the Wind

왕도 홀란 신월

what was the true identity of the king of Earthside, Rahel the First?

According to the secret documents
left from the War of Independence,

the king was different from the other contractors in that he could activate dragon artifacts without a contract.

But, unlike that girl,
he doesn't have a dragon power! If he did,
I would've noticed.

I wanted to know
the fundamental reason why he was able to achieve projects without a contract – a reason other than being the king.

What made the king different from other constructors?

Also, what was that thing they were hiding
beneath the castle,

and why did the brave try so hard to obtain it?

Why was it being imprisoned underground
like this?

It is probably because he wanted to restrain her

and draw her power
for himself to use

That's why he locked her here like this

There it is!

It's better if I share a room with you so that I am near in the event of an emergency!

Plus, if I look like this, I won't take up much more and they won't check me either.

A A A N~

CLANG

CLANG

Message! when did you first come to the capital?

Three years ago.
Karin asked for a volunteer to sponsor the young knight, so I was able to go back and forth between the academy

She said that I would have to get used to the humans.

But the capital has too many humans, and because of the obelisk, I can't use dragon artifacts.

Nevertheless,
I'm happy that I'm able to travel with you, Lady Hermes.

You, too.

CLANG

According to Diden, that obelisk is similar to the one in the Labyrinth.

Do you know
who created it?

Ah, it was always there.

There was a Labyrinth here a long time ago as well. Other Labyrinths should have the same obelisks.

Really?

There is a total of three Labyrinths
that humans
currently possess.

The Labyrinth
of Lore is the most well-known among humans.

Hollen's Labyrinth was originally underground, but over time it became visible from the surface.

There's Torro, Hollen,
and also Zolofur.
The concentration camp in the north.

Zolofur?

Yes. Like Torro, it's an underground labyrinth, but all the dragon artifacts are said to be motivated so it doesn't hold much value anymore.

It's also in a volcanic region that's currently owned by the Rocharids, so I doubt we'll visit that place.

Once Lord Kairak awakens, he'll be capable of using the full power of the dragon pearl, but not without restrictions.

You'll still be able to stop by these times.

Clank

Alright

CLANG

SW

What was that? My body suddenly feels lighter...

Chloe

Chloe

Huh?

Was it originally
that color?

puhar Lady Maharaj
Loud Kartik!
are you safe?

Dickie?

yes!
it's me!

But we're still in the capital!

And no,

if this thing were to be released,

CLACK

their skills
gradually desert

is lost.
